Learning and Teaching Strategies: Students acquire knowledge and develop generic skills through student-centred lessons, mass programmes, workshops, project work and sharing of learning experiences. These learning activities are supported by the judicious use of IT. Measures to 'enhance pedagogy' and 'cater for learner diversities' are high on the priority list of the teaching enhancement plans of individual teachers and subject departments. Developing the students' potential and enabling them to participate in other learning activities and have different experiences are also part of our school mission: 'Strive for Excellence'. We have a school-based curriculum developed in accordance with the principles of 'life-long learning' and 'whole-person development'.

Graded, recommended books and other subject-related extensive reading materials have been used to integrate knowledge into everyday reading and learning. Besides, Wednesday Reading Period is conducted every week to encourage students to read extensively and regularly. Reading Ambassadors help promote the importance of reading through making good book recommendations in the morning assemblies and participating in a variety of reading activities such as creative writing competitions, reading workshops, theme talks, World Book Day one-hour reading challenge and book fairs. Information technology for interactive learning: All classrooms and special rooms have Internet access and LCD projectors to provide support for learning and teaching. Full coverage of the wireless network in the campus supports mobile learning. To enhance learning effectiveness and promote self-directed learning, interactive learning platforms are created by subject departments to disseminate learning and teaching materials, collect and display students' assignments and to enable students to share their learning experiences. Project Learning: Nurtured the students' generic skills through project-based learning. The Science projects in S.3, Humanities projects in S.2 and the subject-based project learning in senior forms all help to enhance students' inquiry learning skills, promote their interest in investigation and develop their critical thinking and problem-solving abilities, attaining the purpose of 'learning to learn'. Moral & Civic Education: Moral & Civic education are implemented through many activities such as iTeen leadership scheme, Chinese culture week programmes, local visits, tour and talks. Life Planning Education: The school strives to help students develop their own academic and careers aspiration in accordance to their interest, abilities and orientations, and encourage them to make informed choice on their learning and careers goals. To achieve this, life planning education programmes are supported in a whole school approach to help students through understanding oneself, goal setting and reflective thinking. A variety of careers-related learning activities such as internship, workplace visits, workshops, experience sharing and careers talks are arranged in and beyond classrooms, with the support of the alumni, community sources and universities, to link study opportunities with career options, as well as widening students' exposure to the future working world.
